

A woman with dark hair and a bindi is wearing a red and gold saree with a wide border and tassels. She is adorned with multiple necklaces, including a green and gold one and a red beaded one, along with large gold earrings, rings, and bangles. She is holding her hands near her face. The background is a beach scene with blue water and a light blue sky.

Fashion you can buy, but style you possess. The key to style is learning who you are, which takes years. There's no how-to road map to style. It's about self expression and, above all, attitude.

Style is the only thing you can't buy. It's not in a shopping bag, a label, or a price tag. It's something reflected from our soul to the outside world—an emotion.
